WARSAW CITIZENS SWEAR TO DEFEND CITY TO DEATH

REDS ARE ONLY TWENTY MILES FROM CITY AND GUNS CAN BE HEARD

(United Press)
Warsaw, Aug. 14—With the reds reported only twenty miles from Warsaw on the north, one hundred thousand people gathered here tonight and swore to defend the city to the last drop of blood.

The growl of the guns could be heard in the distance. There were many armed women in the crowd, and soldiers who had been invalids were going out to the front again to resume fighting.

Because of the disloyalty to the nation, it was evident that the great nation of people have lost faith in the army leaders and the government. Polish bolsheviks are busy behind the lines, and are boasting "that the red tide is rising."

The remainder of the Polish delegates were crossing the line Saturday morning.

Bolsheviks Will Continue Movement
Moscow, Aug. 15—"Both wings of our army will continue the movement including Warsaw," the Russian war office announced today. "We have occupied three towns."

Slaven's recovery was expected today.

NEGRO CAUGHT WHO ATTACKED SMALL GIRL

It was feared he would be lynched.

ASK RELEASE OF SCHOOL TEACHER

(United Press)
Milwaukee, Aug. 14—Steps to obtain a release of the sentence of Grace Lusk, Wausaukee school teacher, serving ten years in the Waupun prison for the murder of Mrs. Daisy Roberts as a sequel of a love triangle, have been taken.

In a letter to the Milwaukee Sentinel, Mosinee, stated that unless his daughter, her father, Dr. A. F. Lusk, of her is released soon she will not last long.

She is said to be suffering from two wounds inflicted at the time of the murder in an effort to kill herself. Miss Lusk has served more than two years of her sentence.

BOSTON FINANCIER LANDS IN PRISON

PONZI AND SEVERAL IMITATORS IN GET RICH QUICK FINANCING, BEHIND BARS

(United Press)
Boston, Mass., Aug. 14—Chas. Ponzi, claimed as a financial genius a week ago, today could not find a friend to go his bond.

Ponzi spent last night in jail. It was no new experience for him. He has spent twenty months in the Montreal prison and two years more in the Atlanta federal prison.

In case Ponzi should raise sufficient money for bail he would immediately be rearrested on additional charges of larceny. Additional large sums have been requested for securities.

Additional arrests were made today. Sam Born, another official of the Old Colony company, was charged with larceny. He could not furnish the $50,000 bail required.

James P. King, manager of the Old Colony company and Arthur Thompson were arrested in Rhode Island.

Ponzi's wife did not know he was in jail. When he left his home he told her he was going out of town for the week-end.

In other cells in the same jail with Ponzi, were three alleged imitators of Ponzi's method of the get rich quick scheme, the heads of the Old Colony Foreign Exchange Co., which was started when Ponzi failed. They were unable to put up the $50,000 bail demanded. The men were Chas. M. Brightell, president; Roymond C. Meyers, treasurer, and Frank Meyers, manager.

Several of Ponzi's friends called at the jail here today and were refused admittance. They were told he was not allowed to see callers for the present. Ponzi slept well last night and appeared not greatly concerned about his position. He ate heartily of the plain prison fare. An extra

OPERATIONS OF PONZI RESULTS IN BANKS CLOSING

BOSTON'S FRENZIED FINANCIER'S METHODS WILL HAVE FAR-REACHING EFFECT

(By United Press)
Boston, Aug. 14—The Polish Industrial Association, a private bank, was seized and closed by State Bank Commissioner J. C. Allen today. Investigation disclosed, Allen said, it had many bad loans.

The Polish bank is the second industrial wreck in Ponzi's collapse.

The first was the Hanover Trust company which was closed a few days ago. Henry Shmielewski is president of the institution.

It was through his operations in the Polish Industrial Association that Shmielewski was enabled to found the Hanover Trust Company.

strong guard was kept around the jail.

The only property he retained from the crash was his famous blue automobile, his home and clothes. His other property was in the hands of state and federal authorities.

RECOVER MONEY OF SPECULATORS

Boston, Aug. 14—The latest statement of the financial conditions of the new victims of Ponzi's bubble, showed they had a profit of $352,000. Drastic measures to recover as soon as possible the millions entrusted to Ponzi by the public here was forecast today in a statement that officials are searching for money alleged to have been put away by Ponzi. It was also reported that he had transferred some of the money to Mrs. Ponzi. Federal officials said any money in Mrs. Ponzi's name could be recovered.

The crash of the Old Colony Foreign Exchange company which promised one hundred per cent profit in six months, brought other hundreds of investors to the attorney general's office today.

Investors in the Old Colony enterprise stormed the state house angrily demanding of the state officials that their money be returned at once.

The police said that they believe the Old Colony Exchange officials now under arrest, have $100,000 hidden somewhere in the city.

It was officially stated that they have on their persons a certified check for $75,000. The company officials are alleged to have admitted to the police that the new firm took in no less than $200,000 in a short career.

PONZI RECEIVES THREATENING LETTER

(United Press)
Boston, Aug. 14—Charles Ponzi, whose financial house built on shiftless sands, tumbled today, received a letter threatening his life, he told the police today.

The letter was written by a man who said he had been trailing Ponzi for twelve years. The police believe the writer may have been one who lost money as a result of Ponzi's financial operations in Montreal just twelve years ago.

REPORT HITCH IN VILLA SURRENDER

VILLA WANTS TO TAKE 150 OF HIS FORCE FOR FARM LABORERS

(By United Press)

Torreón, Chihuahua, Aug. 13—(Night)—Rumors of a hitch in the plans for complete surrender of Francisco Villa and the demobilization of his army were circulated here today. The disarmament and disbanding of Villa's forces has been postponed for a week. General Martinez and the government representatives in the surrender negotiations suddenly returned to Mexico City.

The report of a break were denied by Martinez chief of staff. Martinez found it necessary to go to Mexico City to confer with President De la Huerta on the details of the final surrender and also to get money to pay each of the nine hundred Villistas one year's wages. It was learned however that Martinez disagreed with the proposal that an addition to the armed guard of fifty men which the government allowed Villa to retain, he should take one hundred and fifty more of the bandit force to his ranch as farm laborers. Martinez pointed out that under such an arrangement Villa would also have two hundred retainers at his disposal and could go on the warpath whenever he felt like it. The government has already consented to the Villista officers, totaling two hundred and fifty, keep their weapons and ammunition.

At Villa's request the village of Tlahualilo, Derango, was chosen for final surrender which will be staged there unless hostilities are resumed.

The place selected is a tiny village at the end of a railroad line in the extreme northern corner of Derango.

Villa evidently desires the final ceremonies to be held in an isolated place rather than in a large town where crowds would gather to see the final surrender of Villistas. Villa is believed to fear if his men would disarm in a place where a big crowd gathered they may be attacked. This old district has suffered from raids and many of the people would like to see him dead.

Villa also favored Tlahualilo because it is a dry town. It is controlled by Americans which enforce virtual prohibition. Villa said he did not want to take any chances on his men being unruly after being suddenly burdened with wealth in a wet town.

The Villistas are over at Tlahualilo now. They have been pouring in during the last two days. It is like a big excursion and the bandits have been having as much fun as school boys on a holiday. They rode on top of the freight cars with their horses inside. It looked like the old wild west as the outlaws swarmed down from the cars, brought their horses slipping down the runways then mounting their steeds and rode around town and clicking their six shooters filling the air with wild cries.

EXPRESS RATES RAISED 12 1-2 PER CENT BY BOARD

UNOFFICIAL ESTIMATES COMPUTE ADDED INCOME TO AMERICAN
RY. CO. AT $35,000,000

Washington, Aug. 14—Authority to increase express rates 12½ per cent was granted the American Railway Express company Friday by the interstate commerce commission. The increase, by unofficial estimates, will add $35,000,000 to the annual income of the company.

The commission's decision, however does not take into consideration the recent award of the railroad labor board of increased wages approximating $43,000,000 to express company employees and it is expected application soon will be made by the company for an additional advance in rates to meet the new wage scales.

Rates on milk and cream under the commission's decision are further increased to correspond with the advance of 20 per cent for the transportation of such commodities authorized the railroads except where there are no competing railroads between the affected points. In the latter case an advance of 12½ per cent is authorized.

In touching on the fact that the express company had been allowed only about half of the increase asked, which was 25.1 per cent, the commission expressed the opinion that the full amount awarded should be retained by the express company itself and that none of it should be allowed to the railroad carriers. The commission suggested that the present express company contracts with the railroads under which 50.25 per cent of the gross earnings go to the roads for the carrier service, should be modified to accomplish this purpose.

Permission was granted the company to make new rates effective upon one day's notice by filing blanket schedules with the commission, but the company is required to reissue its tariffs within 90 days of the effective date in the regular manner.

Nothing in the decision, the commission said, is to be taken as forecasting the determination of the applications of the Adams, American, Southern and Wells-Fargo companies for a continuance of their consolidation to the American Express company or on the proposed new contract between the consolidated company and the railroads which has been submitted to the commission for its approval.

REVENUE DRIVE NETS LARGE SUM

CHECKING UP OF ICE CREAM AND SOFT DRINK SALES BRINGS GOVERNMENT $30,000

St. Paul, Aug. 14—The drive inaugurated by internal revenue collectors in Minnesota, to exact the payment of the whole tax on ice cream and soft drinks paid by the public and not returned to the government, resulted in the payment during July of $30,000. A. R. Knox, cashier in the collector's office, said today that in addition to the $30,000, the checking up process has revealed $20,000 more which the dealers are disputing and which will be assessed against them. It is estimated that since the law went into effect at least $100,000 has been paid by the public to the dealers and has not been turned in to the government.

The big discrepancies are not due to any attempt to defraud the government on the part of the proprietors but has been largely the result of lax methods of accounting and carelessness on the part of some of the young men in charge of soda fountains.

The total internal revenue receipts for Minnesota during July were $2,914,277.78.

Paris, Aug. 14—Three French cruisers were ordered to Odessa today to protect French and Brazilian sailors and two ships which the bolsheviks are holding at that port.

The French scout ship Kitoboy, was ordered today to report at Constantinople and to await orders of General Wrangle. Three French cruisers are enroute to Odessa to attack the bolsheviks and will defend the ship on the way to Constantinople.

Arrangements were made at Warsaw today, according to dispatches from that city, for Poland and Wrangle to co-operate to the fullest extent against the bolsheviks. A representative of Wrangle has established headquarters in Warsaw. French strategists believe that a real ditch defense of Warsaw is necessary, it was learned today.

The diplomatic split between France and Britain over Russia was believed to be evident today as the French note to America announced that country had aligned its Russian policy with that of the United States.

FOUR JUSTICES
MAY QUIT BENCH

NEXT PRESIDENT MAY HAVE TO NAME THAT MANY MEMBERS OF SUPREME COURT.

JUSTICE HOLMES IS OLDEST

White, McKenna and Day the Others Who Have Reached the Age of Retirement — Chief Justice Only Democrat of Group.

By JAMES P. HORNADAY.

Washington.—Joseph McKenna, associate justice of the Supreme court of the United States, celebrated his seventy-seventh birthday August 10.
The observance of this milestone in the justice's career reminded a good many persons that the next president of the United States will in all probability be called on to appoint several members of the Supreme court. Persons who are acquainted with the situation are authority for the statement that the incoming president might face the responsibility of having to name a majority of the members of the court.

Four of the justices have passed the retirement age. These are Edward Douglass White, chief justice, who will be seventy-five this coming November; Justice McKenna, who as already noted was seventy-seven August 10; Oliver Wendell Holmes, who was seventy-nine last March, and William R. Day, who was seventy-one last April. A justice may retire at the age of seventy, but members of the court on reaching that age have not been inclined to quit, and the public has apparently approved the custom under which the justices have held on through a ripe old age.

The four members of the court who are eligible to retire are still vigorous, but it is pretty well understood that some of them, possibly all of them, hope to seek freedom from the business of the court within the next two or three years.

Only One a Democrat.

Of the four only one, Chief Justice White, is classified as a Democrat. If there is a tribunal in the world in which party politics is ignored, the Supreme court is probably that tribunal, and yet the political affiliations of the justices do have some political bearing. A president is very likely to take politics into consideration to some extent at least in appointing a member of the bench.

The governing thought has generally been that the court should be maintained on an even keel politically as nearly as possible. Of the nine justices who are serving on the court today, five are classified as Republicans and four as Democrats. It is reasonable to assume that if the four senior members of the court, the justices who have passed the seventy-year milestone, should choose to retire during the next administration, the president, whether he be a Republican or a Democrat, would observe this unwritten rule under which the two great political parties are as equally represented as possible. Thus if the one Democrat and the three Republicans who are eligible for retirement should retire and the president should be a Republican, the probability is that he would appoint one Democrat and three Republicans. On the other hand if the president should be a Democrat, the probability is that he would appoint two Democrats and two Republicans.

President Wilson since he entered the White House, March 4, 1913, has appointed three members of the court:
James Clark McReynolds, who was transferred from the attorney general's office to the court; Louis D. Brandeis, and John H. Clarke. All three of these men are Democrats. It is generally conceded that President Wilson was warranted in appointing Democrats to fill the vacancies as they occurred, because in so doing he simply maintained the political balance of the court; after these three Democrats had been appointed, five of the nine members of the court were Republicans.

All Have Fine Records.
The four men who are eligible to retire will leave splendid records behind them when they do leave the bench. Chief Justice White has been a member of the court since 1894 and chief justice since 1910. President Taft appointed him chief justice. He is a Southern Democrat, but he has never permitted politics to enter into the work of the court in the slightest degree. Justice McKenna was appointed to the court in 1897 by President McKinley.

Oliver Wendell Holmes, who is a son of Oliver Wendell Holmes, the author, was put on the court by President Roosevelt in 1902, and William R. Day received his appointment to the court through President Roosevelt in 1903. Lawyers whose practice takes them before the court agree that the four senior members of the court have rendered the country splendid service.

The other five members of the court,
Willis Van Devanter, Mahlon Pitney, Republicans; James Clark McReynolds, Louis D. Brandeis and John H.
Clarke, Democrats, are also regarded as exceptionally strong men.

To a certain extent a man who takes a place on this court retires from the world. He must at all times keep his skirts absolutely clean and most justices have decided that the only way to do this is to live a rather secluded life.

Dreaming of Ditches.
It's bad luck to dream of ditches. If they are deep, it foretells all kinds of misfortune, lessened in degree only by growing shallowness. Thieves will rob your house. When your children grow up they will be undutiful. If you are in love, you'll have a quarrel with your sweetheart. If you are in business, you will suffer heavy loss.—Chicago Herald and Examiner.

CHRISTIAN CITIZENSHIP

Its Development Stressed at Thursday Session of County Sunday School Conference

WORK FOR UPLIFT OF YOUTH

The Home, Public School, Community and Church School Four Constructive Forces

The development of Christian citizenship was stressed at the evening session of the county Sunday school conference. "The home, the public school, the community and the church school are the four forces working constructively for the uplift of youth," declared O. G. Herbrecht, of Des Moines, Iowa. "Just as we demand that our high schools should be accredited, so we are insisting that Sunday schools should reach definite educational standards."

"The most potent possibility of the church school is the training of leadership," said Harold F. Humbert, of Boston. "Leadership is the supreme secret of Christianity. Sympathetic understanding of the pupil, the text book and effective methods of presentation are fundamental to the Sunday school teachers' success. The need of the pupil is the law of school."

A nominating committee, composed of G. A. Beale, George A. Tracy and H. F. Michael, is to report names of officers for the Crow Wing County Sunday School association. The convention has expressed appreciation at the selection of James C. Garrison of North Dakota, as state superintendent of Sunday school work in Minnesota.

The program for Friday evening's session at the Methodist church, which was open to all who are interested in religious education, was as follows:

8:00—Song service.
Prayer—Rev. A. C. Smith, Brainerd.
Report of nominating committee.
Address—"The Miracle of Growing Up," Harold F. Humbert, Boston.
Address—"The Man of Tomorrow," O. G. Herbrecht, Des Moines.

ENTERTAINS FOR GUEST

Miss Iva Gaskill Hostess to Twelve Girl Friends, Party in Honor of Her Cousin

On Tuesday evening the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Gaskill at 303 N. Broadway, was the scene of a very merry party, when Miss Iva Gaskill entertained twelve of her little girl friends, in honor of her cousin, Miss Annette Bastien, of Fane City. The evening was spent in playing games, "60" wed by a short musical program, including fancy step dancing by Miss Kathleen Early; song "Bye-bye" a lullaby by Miss Iva the hostess; Scotch dancing by Miss Annette, Boston piano selections by Miss Margaret O'Brien and Miss Margaret DeLamere; "Evening Song" by the entire group of girls; guessing contest in which Miss Margaret DeLamere won the prize.

Refreshments were served at 9:30 p. m. after which the merry lassies were escorted by auto to their respective homes by the hostess.

Syversen-Cunco

Miss Evelyn Syversen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Syversen of Ironton, was married at St. Paul August 12 to John J. Cunco, a prominent architect of St. Paul.

Miss Pearl Wendlandt of Duluth was the bridesmaid and Doore Forsie of St. Paul was the best man. Dinner was served at the cottage of E. R. Syversen at Lake Comfort, Wyoming, Minn.

The bride has attended the Backus school for girls in St. Paul the past two years and is a charming, pretty girl with a host of friends at school and home. The newlyweds are spending their honeymoon at Camp Comfort, the summer home of her parents located on South Long Lake. They will make their home in Ironton.

The Dispatch joins their many friends in extending best wishes for their continued happiness and prosperity.

Small Wonder!

"I trust, sir, that you have not been indiscreet enough to speak to my daughter about marriage," said the stern parent to the youth who had just asked for his daughter's hand. "I have not, sir," replied the youth, "but I was strongly tempted to do so last evening when she kissed me good night."

Paraffin for Dull Furniture.

When your furniture gets a little dull looking and feels sticky, try pouring a little bit of paraffin on a rag and rubbing dry with a clean duster until every bit of the oil is removed. It will leave a nice polish and be very satisfactory.

World's Two Great Canals.
The Suez canal, which was opened in 1859 is 96 miles long, while the Panama canal is but 50.5 miles in length. It cost about $100,000,000 to construct the Suez canal, while the cost of building the Panama canal was almost four times that amount.

White Mule.
Dixon H. Bynum, assistant city attorney, comes forward with an explanation as to how "white mule" got its name. Mr. Bynum, who did government legal work in the southwest, says that the term came into use in connection with the efforts of the government officials to stop the traffic of liquor among the Indians.

Whenever an Indian was caught with liquor, he invariably told the same story as to how he got it.

Every Indian, it seemed, got his liquor from "a one-eyed negro on a white mule riding west."—Indianapolis Star.

Women Now Eligible to V. C.
A royal warrant consolidating and extending provisional royal warrants regarding the Victoria Cross was published recently in the London Gazette. The principal feature is that women are now made eligible for decoration, it being ordained that matrons, sisters, nurses and the staff of the nursing services and other services pertaining to hospitals and nursing, and civilians of either sex serving regularly or temporarily under the orders, direction or supervision of any of the armed forces of the crown, shall be eligible to the cross.

ALL WOMEN LIKE PRETTY CLOTHES

Standardizing Fashions to Gain Saving Sure Not to Meet Milady's Approval.

COMBINATIONS ARE IN FAVOR

Materials Used Together Afford Frock Which Needs Little Trimming—Fris for the Slender Young Woman.

We may talk of overalls and uniforms as much as we like, observes a prominent fashion authority, but the love of pretty clothes inherent in every woman never will be suppressed. Those who work toward standardizing fashions for women cherish a vain hope. It is not because women are extravagant that they insist on pretty clothes, for a woman will really work to get what she wants in her dress. She will shop carefully to be sure of the best values and search for dress-makers who will carry out her ideas inexpensively.

Why should we wear overalls? If we adopt overalls and uniforms even to help reduce the cost of living—and it is doubtful whether it will—we would in time feel as stupid as the overalls look. In a dress of this sort we are limited in the choice of both design and color—and color and pretty clothes may both be said to be synonymous with charm.

Make Their Dresses Over.
One way of economizing in dress is by giving thought to our selection in the first place and choosing a style that we can easily change. The idea of making a dress over from one fashion to another is typically English.

Thus it is quite easy to understand why many English novelists have dressed their heroines from trunks in the family garret. One can imagine that no dress is ever thrown away by an Englishwoman, for she expects that either she or some of her descendants will wear it.

In decided contrast to ours, the Parisienne who makes any pretense of being smart would not wear a second season dress. Whereas, the Englishwoman wears her clothes year after year because they are good clothes and becoming to her, the French woman has absolutely the dress of the hour, which is always a model or a copy of one from a well known firm and which bears the cachet of the best designer's approval for the moment. The smart Parisienne wears this dress almost continuously for a short period. Then she is never seen in it again, but takes up the next smart thing. The Englishwoman during the same period will wear a different dress every day and will keep on wearing this same dress intermittently for a period of months. The American woman makes a happy compromise between the two.

For Summery Dresses.

A great many of this summer's dresses show a combination of two materials. There is more back of this idea than might appear on the surface, for such a frock needs very little in the way of trimming. As it is always easier to visualize a frock with some definite color in mind, I would suggest a slip of white Swiss dotted in soft blue, with a narrow sash and a long collar of plain white organdie continuing to the bottom of the skirt. Or the entire dress may be of bright red Swiss with white dots and a long white organdie collar caught in at the belt and under the hem of the skirt. A hat of peanut straw, bright red in color, the brim bound with white organdie and the crown smoothed with a scarf of the same material may complete the costume. Or the straw crown may be removed and one of white organdie substituted.

Frock of white net with detachable side plaited tunic which may be fastened to a belt or sash.

Another pretty effect is achieved through using two different materials for a frock by making a plain foundation dress, consisting of a straight gathered skirt and simple bodice of white organdie. Over the skirt is placed a side plaited tunic of coral colored Swiss, which is open at the front, and a coral overwaist almost like a bolero. The latter is gathered at the waistline and opens at the front so that a wide white panel is revealed from the neckline to the hem. Still more color is introduced by a sash of inch-wide gros-grain ribbon of real ocean blue. You may like to work out this model in beige Swiss over white, with a navy sash, or in lavender and white, with a green sash.

For the Slender Woman.
Young girls like frills. So, for the slender young woman the frock in bright colored Swiss organdie is evolved. The hues in which the organdies may be had are ravishing. For instance, there are various flame shades, and as the material is thin a pretty effect is attained by making one shade over another. That is, if a light flame color is chosen the slip may be a bright red. Two pastel shades, such as pale green over a soft blue, give a lovely effect. Brown over coral and brown over yellow are suggested as combinations. All the frills are pivot edged, so it is not such a task to make this frock as one would suppose. If one wishes, the fichu may be of white organdie for becomingness, although a smarter effect is attained by making it the same color as the dress.

Pale yellow organdie dress with fluted ruffles which is a frilly hot weather outfit that appeals.

Since organdie is distinctly a hot weather material, still another model evolved from it is of a very soft green, just a bit lighter than the shade known as jade. It has an apron skirt. A very fine old-fashioned looking white braid and a white sash make the trimming.

English Sateens Again in Vogue.

There was a time when we would have scoffed at the idea of wearing a sateen dress. Now dresses of English sateens are quite in the mode. It is amazing the beauty certain materials acquire directly they become fashionable. We might all become style creators if we had the courage to buy materials when they are not popular and make frocks so pretty that everybody would want to copy them. Of course, when a material such as sateen becomes fashionable its makers give more attention to bringing out pretty patterns. The sateens of this season look like fourtards. There are some with white backgrounds and small conventional designs in bright reds and blues, with here and there a dash of black, that are charming. Then, there is a brown sateen, with a conventional design in white, with accents of black, that is smart.

Design Adapted to English Prints.
In a model of English sateen the background of the material is white and the little spots are bright red outlined with black. The sash and trimmings are of organdie. The design adapts itself quite as well to English prints of small pattern. A print with a deep green background and a design in black and white makes a pretty frock of this type. In fact, it is a model that lends itself to many materials. A pink and white checked gingham made after this fashion and trimmed with white organdie makes a pretty country frock.

Wax Porch Floors.
Thoroughly scrub the porch floors and when dry have them waxed with any of the good floor waxes. After this treatment the floors should be polished with a polishing brush just as one would do in polishing hardwood floors. This method preserves the floor, and after the porch is treated in this manner one does not have to put water on it during the entire season. Have the porch gone over daily with a broom or a floor mop. Much time is saved thus in hot weather, and a porch treated in this manner always looks well.

To Clean Neckwear.
The best way to cleanse a fragile collar of lace net or hand embroidery is to place it on a piece of muslin before washing it and drying it.

Vain Warnings.
An eminent actor-manager tells a story concerning a clergyman and his actor son. Prior to his going on the stage the father wrote to the manager, saying, "My son, John, has threatened to go on the stage, and I want you to stop him." However, shortly afterward, the son did go on the stage, and the manager, meeting him one day, asked how his father took it. "I have not seen him," was the reply, "but he takes some interest in me, because whenever any actor is charged with a crime he underlines the report of it in the newspapers and sends it to me."

Ancient Dentistry.
Interesting specimen of Etruscan dentistry is now in the civic museum at Corneto of the Necropolis of Tarquinii and consists of three teeth, or, more properly, four abutment attachments and three supplies, the attachments being gold stars and the teeth supplied below the crown incisors and bicusps. The two central incisors are made from a single or tooth ground down to give it the appearance of two upper central incisors.

GAS SITUATION

Brainerd has been without gas since Thursday morning when the compressor of the Brainerd Gas & Electric company blew up.

There are 705 patrons of the company and they have found that gas is more than a convenient household utility. It is a necessity. Wood, coal, coke, all have risen in cost and gas costs must rise accordingly.

The explosion caused a heavy loss for the company. It is also causing losses to gas consumers. Should the gas company quit business and the making of gas be abandoned in Brainerd, it leaves 795 gas consumers loaded up with a lot of gas ranges, gas heaters and other equipment, on which little can be realized. It also necessitates buying electric or coal ranges and these cost money.

So it is hoped the gas situation will soon work itself out into something definite, assuring service to patrons and with efficiency raised 100 per cent.

SYMPATHY

Brainerd extends its sympathy to St. Cloud. The Granite City census figures are 15,873, but people there are assured St. Cloud has 16,000.

Same way Brainerd got 9591 by the census count when a lot of people just know Brainerd has 10,000 people.

Rochester had a 74.9 per cent increase, and that was due probably to counting all the patients in the hospital.

GET RICH QUICK

Another Boston get rich quick concern has resolved itself into a go bust quick affair.

Wood Fibers

A new conception of wood fibers is given by the great number of measurements that the forest products laboratory in Wisconsin has made. The length of the fibers, instead of being uniform and characteristic in each species, has been found to vary more in a single tree than in the average for different species. One Douglas fir had fibers ranging from 0.8 to 7.65 millimeters in length, though several thousand measurements showed the average for the Douglas fir to be 4.41 millimeters and for the longleaf pine 3.67 millimeters—a difference in the average for two species of less than one millimeter, or one-twenty-fifth of an inch. In early growth, up to 20 to 30 years, the fiber length increased strikingly from the center outward, but after the maximum has been reached the variation is small, even though the tree live to 400 years or more. There is also some increase in fiber length from the butt of the tree upward for about two-thirds of the distance to the top. Each annual ring shows variation in itself, the wood of early spring having longer fibers than that formed last summer.

PLAN TO MERGE MANY UNIONS

Garment Workers Are to Be Brought Together in One Organization.

WILL HAVE OWN FACTORIES

Hope to Wage Successful Fight Against Profiteers Through That Method—Their Location Planned in Three Large Cities.

Definite steps toward the formation of an alliance of all the garment workers' unions in America have been taken by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union.

Benjamin Schlesinger, president of the union, announced that a call had been sent out for a conference to be held in October for the purpose of organizing a federation of the 500,000 workers in the seven international unions in the clothing and garment industry.

"The logic of events and the legitimate causes which have prompted the formation of national departments in the mining, building, printing and other industries point with directness to the need of forming a similar federation in our industry," said Mr. Schlesinger.

Profiteering in the women's garment industry is to be fought with union-owned shops, factories and stores.

This became known when union officials announced that a committee is at work laying the foundation for the first group of union-owned factories, which are expected to be in operation by next spring.

These factories are to be established to demonstrate the fact that workers can be paid first-class wages, work less hours and enjoy better working conditions than they are now getting and reap a "reasonable profit" from their product and still sell it considerably under the regular market price.

The union proposes to sell its output to consumers through its own stores.

The first group of six factories will be established in New York, together with a number of union stores, union officials said. Others will be located in Chicago and Philadelphia.

"We expect to be turning out medium and high price garments for the spring trade," A. Baroff, secretary of the union, said. "The first factories will probably employ about 1,000 workers to be selected by the union." They will be paid higher wages than are paid by employers in the garment industry, he added. The workers now work an eight-hour day with a half-holiday on Saturday.

Thankful for That.

It is said that hatpins to match the color of the eyes are to be worn this year and will be very fashionable. "Indeed," said Brown, as he read the foregoing to his wife, "then I won't have to have green hatpins stuck into my blue eyes."

WHY CABLE SHIP WAS HEADED OFF

UNITED STATES IS DETERMINED TO BRING ABOUT WORLD FREEDOM OF COMMUNICATION.

TWO CONFERENCES THIS FALL

America Holds That No Nation Should Control the Cables, in War or Peace Time — Has Strong Weapon in Radio.

By JAMES P. HORNADAY.

Washington.—Behind the action of President Wilson the other day in directing the navy department to prevent a cableship of British register from attaching a new cable to the Florida coast, is a determination on the part of the United States to bring about world freedom of communication. Great Britain was only indirectly involved in the recent episode. The cable was being laid by an American company, but had it been connected up with the shore it would have been controlled by Great Britain, as are practically all the other ocean cables.

The whole subject of the freedom of communication by cable and through the air is to be considered at a conference here September 15, which will be participated in by Great Britain, France, Japan and the United States. Later there is to be a conference here at which some twelve or fifteen countries will be represented. At both conferences the United States will hold out for an international arrangement under which in time of war as well as in time of peace the wires under the seas as well as the radio stations on land shall not be under the exclusive control of any nation. In the September 15 conference only four nations are to be represented because these are the only cable-laying nations at the present time; but the United States authorities believe it is a subject in which the entire world is interested and so there will follow, sometime in October probably, a conference at which there will be a larger representation.

Position of the United States.

The view of the United States is that the time has passed when any nation or any group of nations can hope to control communication between the peoples of the world. It believes the world war settled that question for all time to come. When the war came on, as is generally known, Great Britain was in control of most of the cables. France also had a considerable say so about under-water communication. The United States was just beginning to reach out in this new field. The Japanese have laid a cable across the Pacific and are now awaiting permission from the United States to attach it to the shore of this country.

Only recently a Japanese mission arrived here bearing a request to the United States that permission be granted to make the land connection. This mission has been notified that the permission will not be granted at this time and that the subject will go to the September conference for consideration. In this case as in the Florida case in which Great Britain is interested, the position of the United States will be that before permission to make these land connections is granted, there must be a definite understanding as to the rights of the United States with respect to the use of these cables under any and all circumstances.

Radio Uncle Sam's Weapon.

Radio communication is the powerful weapon in the hands of the United States in holding out for this world freedom of communication. The world war brought great developments in radio communication. The United States during the last four years has established wireless stations which enable it at this time to communicate through the air to practically every quarter of the globe. This means of communication has its disadvantages. One of these is that it is free to all and this means that privacy is next to impossible. But in spite of the disadvantages the United States is able to say to Great Britain and to Japan, if it should care to do so, that it can get along without the use of the cables which they control. So the state department officials believe that when the subject is taken up at the forthcoming conference the United States will be able to obtain a far more satisfactory arrangement with the cable companies than it has ever had in the past. The men who are devoting their lives to this subject of radio communication say that wireless telegraphy, so called, is in its infancy.

Only recently advances have been made with wireless telephones. Just a few weeks ago wireless telephone messages were sent traveling back and forth between the city of Los Angeles, Cal., and the Catalina islands, 30 miles at sea. The navy is now making free use of the wireless telephone in communicating from ship to ship where there is close formation. The wireless phone is also being used successfully by aviators to communicate with land stations.

When the progress along these various lines is taken into consideration, says the United States in dealing with the whole subject, it is preposterous to presume that any nation or any group of nations can say they will continue to control to a large extent world communication.

GENERAL LABOR NEWS

Employees of the New York Railways company, operating several surface car lines in Manhattan, Harlem and the Bronx, were granted a wage increase of 10 per cent by J. E. Hodges, receiver for the company. The increase became effective July 18 and the agreement under which it is granted will continue in force until December 31, 1921.

American Federation of Labor officials will take "the stump" in the congressional campaign in an effort to defeat candidates who refused to obey labor legislation, Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, announced. The federation campaign of "information" to the voters is in full swing, Morrison stated.

French Perfume $1 a Drop.

Only the very wealthy will be able to enhance their charms hereafter by penetrating perfumes. Perfume is going to be fabulous—$1 a drop is soon a general thing.

The cost of producing flowers is said to be responsible for the rise. A pound of jasmine perfume requires 25,000 rose bushes; 5,000 rose bushes yield scarcely a pound of rose extract, and as for a pound of violet essence, a plot 30 miles square barely suffices to produce sufficient plants to make it.

WORSE THAN LIGHTED CIGAR

Denverite, After Carefully Igniting it, Absentmindedly Put the Fire-cracker in His Mouth.

As a result of absent-mindedness in his Fourth of July celebrating, Oslip Salonski, 32, of West Denver lost several teeth and is carrying his face in a sling.

Oslip stood on the corner, smoking a cigaret and watching with interest the youngsters shoot off their explosives. Suddenly a desire to be young, real young, once more assailed him, and, strolling up to a nearby booth, he purchased a whole fistful of firecrackers. Stepping to the edge of the curb, he cautiously applied the end of his lighted cigaret to the fuse of one of the crackers. A spitter and a volley of little sparks announced that the noise was on the way. Then Oslip's mentality failed to function properly. With a quick movement he slammed his cigaret into the street and jammed the end of the firecracker into his mouth.

A terrific crash, which disengaged three front teeth and bespeckled his face with powder burns, brought Oslip to the conclusion that all was not just as it should be. He made a run for the nearest drug store, and he emerged a few moments later weeping with the fumes of iodine and his face and neck swathed in bandages, and he looked much like an accident that had gone somewhere to happen and, apparently, had been a success. — Denver Times.

PLAN FORMED TO CONTINUE PLANT

A. G. Whitney, President of Gas Company, Proposes Brainerd Buy Stock in Plant

TO ASSURE LOCAL COOPERATION

Minimum at $3. Rate at $3, to Assure 7-1/2 Per Cent on the Investment

Pres. A. G. Whitney, of the Brainerd Gas & Electric Co., met with business men of the city late Friday afternoon and it is believed a plan will be worked out to continue gas making in Brainerd. The committee named is expected to have a report formulated to present to the council meeting next Monday evening.

At 1:30 Friday afternoon a conference of business men of the city, many being large users of gas, was addressed by A. G. Whitney, president of the Brainerd Gas & Electric Co., who explained his position, the needs of the company, the necessity of a sliding scale of rates based on a guarantee of at least 7-1/2 per cent on their investment and the necessity of selling $25,000 stock in the company in Brainerd in order to assure local backing and cooperation.

R. R. Wise was temporary chairman. On motion of Con O'Brien, carried, a committee of three was appointed to examine into conditions meeting with Mr. Whitney's request and the committee is to report by Monday evening or sooner.

On the committee are Con O'Brien, George D. LaBar and M. E. Ryan. "With a $3 minimum and a $3 rate I think the company can pull through," said Mr. Whitney, providing of course that the stock was sold. Of this $25,000 amount, he was satisfied if $8,000 was cash and the balance in installments.

The Northern Pacific has proffered the company the use of a compressor, gauges and other instruments have been ordered by the company and it is expected that 36 hours will witness a change in the local situation again assuring gas to the community.

With a makeshift arrangement gas could be made now, but it would be dangerous in a way, as not a pressure gauge of any kind is on hand, all the instruments having been blown up by Thursday's explosion. Mr. Whitney assured his hearers his aim was to get 100 per cent efficiency if the company resumed operations and not run an emergency proposition which might fall down in a few hours.

Committee at Work
Of the special citizens committee appointed by R. R. Wise, two members Con O'Brien and M. E. Ryan have been in conference. The committee will meet again on Sunday. Mr. LaBar was called out of town.

Gas Consumers Meet Monday
The committee is working diligently on the matter so as to be able to make a report to the meeting of gas consumers called for 7:30 o'clock on Monday evening at the court house, and having them determine whether the committee shall go to the council and having the committee recommend what shall be the right thing to do.

Search Recovers One of Them, But Two Slipped into the Cracks of the Platform Brick

The fact that Gull river near Brainerd contains pearls and that pearl fishermen have been successful in its depths was revealed in Brainerd through Earl Peterson when he lost two valuable pearls on the depot platform.

Young Peterson was showing a friend a half dozen of his pearls which he had fished from Gull river, when three of them rolled from the pouch in which he kept his treasures. One was recovered, but two eluded all search, having probably found a resting place in the cracks between the bricks of the platform.

Peterson wears a ring which carries one of the most beautiful pearls of his collection. To get the pearls from the clams, the shells must be opened carefully and the flesh of the mollusc inspected, especially near the point where it is attached to the shell.

Pearls range in prices from $20, $50, $60 and upwards, depending upon quality, luster or brilliance, freedom from imperfections, etc.

CEMENT NEEDED FOR BRAINERD

Ed Johnson, Who Secured and Sublet Oak Street Paving, Says Lack of Cement is Retarding Him

WRITES EXPLANATORY LETTER

Riches & Son Have Done the Necessary Excavation And Cannot Lay the Paving

Cement is needed in Brainerd. Lack of cement is retarding the paving of Oak street and is holding back the contractors.

The following letter dated Superior, Wis., Aug. 9th, addressed to mayor and city council by the general contractor in charge of Oak street paving, is self-explanatory and is published by the Dispatch to let the people know why Oak street paving has halted:

"I have been informed that the city and county officials are being blamed by the taxpayers and the general public because the Oak street pavement is not being laid.

"The only reason that this job is not going ahead is because we are unable to get cement.

Before this contract was let, Mr. Ed Johnson, County Highway Engineer received a letter from Mr. Babcock, State Highway Engineer, stating that the cement for Oak street would be available, but there seems to have been some misunderstanding between the state and cement officials.

When I was awarded this job, I gave the cement order to the Lakeside Lumber Co., one of your local dealers.

When Mr. Riches, whom I have sublet this job to, went to the dealer to have shipment made, he was then informed that the cement company would not take the order.

Riches and Son had gotten the excavation almost finished before they found out that they were unable to get cement and I assure you that if they had for a minute thought they would be unable to get cement after being informed that it would be available, they certainly would not have excavated the street.

I do not know who is to blame, but I do know it was not the city council, or county commissioners or the contractor.

Hoping that we will be able to get the cement, I remain

Very respectfully yours,
(Signed) JOHNSON-SONS

Broad Street Once a Canal.

Broad street was once a canal. New York city was taken by the English in 1664, and their first map, called "The Duke's Plan," after James, duke of York, the brother of King Charles II, to whom his royal brother most kindly presented the city, and who changed the name from New Amsterdam to New York in his honor, shows little change from that of 1642, according to the Merchants' association. In the year 1672 the English filled in the old canal and made the present Broad street by dragging down the red sand from the higher ground along Broadway and Wall street.

Thimbles.
We are told that the art of making thimbles was brought to England by John Lofting, a mechanic from Holland, who set up a workshop at Islington, near London, and practiced the manufacture in various metals and forms with profit and success in 1695. But according to some authorities the thimble is mentioned earlier than 1650. All thimbles except the tailor's, which is open at the top, are or should be bell shaped. The most serviceable thimble is made of steel, but others are made of gold, silver, horn, ivory and bone.

Napoleon Inveterate Reader.

At seventeen Napoleon Bonaparte was an inveterate reader, who avidly consumed the famous confessions of Rousseau, who read the memoirs of Madame de Warens and of Claude Anet. At eighteen he began a military history of Corsica, and actually completed two volumes. Two years later, the same authority says, he devised the scheme that each of the officers of his regiment should bring to read at meals original short stories. He himself contributed several Corsican tales all marked by the romantic and tragic conventions of the period.

SHORT SIGHTED POLICY SHOWN

Pequot Marshal Arresting Tourists for Small Traffic Infractions, Says Tib Man

TOURISTS MAY AVOID PEQUOT

Tib Automobile Route Book Co. in the City Gaining Data for New Issue of Book

"Pequot is showing a poor sighted policy when it comes to handling the tourist travel," said H. D. Hewitt, official field representative of the Tib Automobile Route Book Co., of Kansas City, as he visited the Brainerd Dispatch office.

"They have started enforcing traffic laws. Three arrests made of tourists yesterday included one for speeding 100 feet from garage to tracks, one for cutting a corner too short and not going around the center of the street intersection, and one for not parking his car at the right angle."

The Tib man called on the mayor of Pequot and said that was the way Pequot was to handle tourists, the best way was for the tourist stream to avoid the town of Pequot. The mayor, said the Tib man, promised to take up the matter.

It seems the Pequot village council went on record to check all infractions of traffic rules and so instructed the village marshal, giving the latter no discretion, but simply general orders, regardless of tourists or others.

The Tib people are getting out their new route book for 1921. The Chamber of Commerce of Brainerd has taken a half-page advertisement. Summer resorts in the vicinity of Brainerd and business men and hotels are represented in the advertising.

The Tib edition last year was one of 267,000 for Minnesota. Special editions were printed for the Minneapolis and Duluth automobile clubs. Brainerd is shown with seven routes leading from the city. Five standard makes of automobiles now carry the northern national guide of the Tib company in their tool boxes.

Mr. Hewitt travels in a red Haynes club roadster. "Ask Tib," has grown into a standard question, for the Tib Automobile Route Book will answer almost every conceivable question on automobile routes in the section it covers.

CAMPAIGN PLANS BEING LAID

Much of the Money Collected Will Be Used for Advertising—How Democrats and Republicans Are Handling the Peace Question.

By JAMES P. HORNADAY.
Washington.—The preliminaries for this year's presidential campaign are out of the way. Within a few weeks the contests will be warming up, and by the first of October they will be in full swing. Five nominees for president have been made, as follows: Gov. James M. Cox, Ohio, Democrat; Senator Warren G. Harding, Ohio, Republican; Parley P. Christensen, Utah, Labor-Farmer; Aaron D. Watkins, Ohio, Prohibition; and Eugene V. Debs, Indiana, Socialist. It may be that other nominations will be made, but at this time there is no prospect of any more.

The two major candidates, Governor Cox and Senator Harding, have spoken in response to formal notification, and the other three candidates have in an informal way at least made it plain where they stand on most of the issues of the day. So it may be said that the candidates are all ready for the fray. The political committees, notably the Democratic and Republican committees, are still engaged with campaign plans. The activities in behalf of the candidates will be along the usual lines. Each of the old parties will maintain headquarters in New York city, and each will have a branch in Chicago, and possibly one on the Pacific coast. Already there have been established divisions devoted to strategy, publicity, finances and speaking.

Much Advertising Planned.

In the campaign of 1912, and also in the contest of 1916, the political committees made freer use of advertising than ever before, and this year much stress will be laid on this branch of the activity. It is proposed that a large percentage of the money collected for campaign purposes shall be used in publicity. This does not mean that the old custom of sending speakers out will be abandoned or even curtailed. Already each of the committees is making up lists of speakers that will charge on the country.

It is generally agreed that on many of the domestic problems, indeed on most of them, the two parties are in accord, or very nearly so. Since the Chicago and San Francisco conventions there has been more or less speculation as to what the chief issue in the campaign would be. Even the men who are to manage the campaigns have indulged in this sort of speculation.

Most observers are of the opinion that the treaty of peace with Germany and the League of Nations is bound to hold a prominent place in the campaign. It is probably true that a good many of the politicians in each of the old parties would have preferred to see this issue take a place in the background, but apparently their desires are not to be satisfied. It is difficult to foresee precisely how this issue will finally be presented to the people, but apparently the Republican candidate and the organization that is to work for his election do not intend to support the league, while the Democratic candidate and the organization behind him propose to make a vigorous campaign in favor of the ratification of the treaty, with the League of Nations covenant included.

League Issue Worried Them.

Neither of the old parties has been able to handle this subject without considerable embarrassment. The Democrats were confronted with the fact that a considerable number of Democratic senators voted to ratify the treaty with the Lodge reservations, and thus could not well take a stand in favor of ratification without change without placing some of the Democratic senators, who are candidates for re-election, in an embarrassing position. The final decision of the Democratic managers is understood to be that they will go through the campaign favoring ratification with reservations that do not destroy any of the provisions of the treaty. This, of course, is in accordance with the party's platform adopted at San Francisco.

The Republican embarrassment has been due to the fact that a majority of the Republicans in the senate voted to ratify the treaty, with the League of Nations included with the so-called Lodge reservations. To break away from that position meant that Republican senators who had sought and obtained renomination on the record they made in the senate on the treaty would be placed in an attitude of perplexity. Recently there have been numerous conferences among the Republican leaders with the view to getting this issue in shape. Senator Harding's speech of acceptance was interpreted to mean that he is not now in favor of the ratification of the treaty with the Lodge reservations, but prefers some new sort of international understanding, which would be arrived at probably through The Hague tribunal.

In the meantime the great masses of voters are doing a lot of thinking for themselves.

OBSTINATE MAN A WEAKLING

Far From Being Sign of Strength, "Bullheadedness" Is Distinguishing Mark of Inferiority.

In the course of an article on "Where We Get Our Moods," in People's Magazine for June, the author says: "Obstinacy, psychologists assert, is a sign of a deep-seated sense of inferiority. This is acquired in childhood and often comes, they say, from a trifling source. Red hair, small size, girlish delicacy in a boy, freckles, slowness at books, 'butter fingers,' clumsiness at sports, or poverty may make a child feel himself inferior to other children. Alfred Adler, who has studied the subject thoroughly, holds that the inferiority of a physical organ like the heart or lungs or eyes has a direct influence in determining the personality.

"Long after the original defect has vanished its effect upon the individual remains, sometimes to the detriment of his business relations. A man may all his life strive to equal some boyish rival whom he has in reality long surpassed. There are two methods of doing this. One is the logical way of an ambitious attack on life. As an individual gradually accumulates prestige and financial security he secures ease from the goading sense of inadequacy. In this way it may act as a spur. The other method is the unsatisfactory one of overcompensation. Just as Whipple was obstinate in manhood because he couldn't hold his own in childhood. Here it is an obstruction.

"The habitual boaster appears, from this viewpoint, merely a little boy whistling to keep up his courage. A man tilting back in his office chair boasting how much pig iron he has sold, may be unconsciously trying to convince himself that he is now smarter than Chuck Jones, who used to win all his marbles away from him when they played for keeps behind the schoolhouse."

Unimpeachable Integrity Required.

I have read many stories about distrustful characters. A Companion contributor writes, but I personally knew the old man who is the hero of the following tale. He lived alone and, although very well-to-do, never spent a cent without ample reason. Nor was extreme parsimonious his only failing. He was uncharitable as well; he firmly believed that the average human being wanted only the opportunity "to put over some kind of graft," as he expressed it.

One day Uncle Harmon, as he was called, hailed a young man, whom he considered trustworthy, and, handing to him a letter said: "Glad I see you, Jud. Ain't been able to get downtown lately on account of the deep snow, and I didn't have a stamp. Here's the two cents. Been holding it a couple of days. Kinda figured you'd be passing by here soon. I didn't dare trust it to any of these people round here, for I knew they'd just chuck any letter some place and blow the two cents."—Youth's Companion.

Ethel Was Foxy.

A neighborhood story down Lisbon way has to do with a father who, one evening when his three small daughters were having too much fun jumping about and playing in their beds, went to the bottom of the stairs and threatened to spank them if they didn't become quiet. The girls remained quiet for a few minutes, then the fun broke out again. After this performance had been repeated several times the father went upstairs to carry out his promise. Without taking the trouble to light a lamp father administered three spankings and went back downstairs. Next morning the eldest of the girls complained bitterly. "I don't see why you spanked me twice," she said. "I didn't," the father replied. "You surely did." "How could that happen?" "After you spanked me the first time Ethel flopped under the bed and came in at the front and you missed her altogether."—Exchange.

Canadian Airplane Industry.

Seventeen aerial taxicab companies are being formed in western Canada, and a number of these have already been licensed by the air board. Four commercial flying companies have been formed at Winnipeg, and there are companies at Regina, Moose Jaw, Saskatoon, Edmonton, Hanna (Alberta), Calgary, Lethbridge, Banff and in Vancouver. Airmen are to be built at Virden and Vancouver. Passenger flying is the first object of these companies, and mail carrying and distribution for large shops are expected to follow.

COMMUNITY LIFE IN BORNEO

Sometimes as Many as Four Hundred Persons Will Be Found Dwelling
Under One Roof.

The Dyak women are chiefly occupied with weaving, dyeing, cooking, planting the seed and taking care of the children and the house, says Gertrude Emerson, writing in Asia. Housekeeping in Borneo has its own complications. As a rule a large number of families live under one roof. On an average there may be 40, but instances have been known in which as many as 400 persons were living together in a single community house.

The houses are constructed on piles, with ladders leading to the outer uncovered veranda which runs the entire length of the house. This veranda is used more or less as a public highway. Any one passing through the village may climb up the ladder at one end, walk along it and climb down the other end in the most casual manner. Just behind it lies a covered portion of the house and here most of the work is carried on. The men may be seen building a small boat or making brass jewelry; the women weaving or dyeing or pounding rice into flour for baking.

Opening from the veranda is a series of doors leading into separate rooms, one belonging to each family. Here the Dyaks do their cooking, eating and sleeping, except that unmarried girls usually sleep in a loft reached from the rooms, while the boys occupy the inner veranda. A Dyak has but one wife, and either husband or wife, if found guilty of improper conduct, is subject to severe punishment by the community.

A pleasant trait among the Dyaks is their fondness for their children, whom they have been seldom known to treat with anything but kindness and indulgence. They are also kind to old people—unlike other tribes in Borneo, who formerly followed the custom of killing or burning alive those whose usefulness to the community has been exhausted.

Siamese Funeral Custom.

The king of Siam recently put the torch to the pyre at the cremation of his mother, who died in October. This is the custom in Siam after the period of mourning is over. There was a long Buddhist ceremony and an officer handed the king a lighted torch. This he applied to the foot of the pyre, and the actual cremation began. Next morning the king and the royal family went back to find the charred pyre still surrounded by the guards. It is the king's duty and privilege to search for the first material part of the departed royalty. His family help him to collect others until all the ashes in the basket are gathered together. They are then put in a golden urn, which is conveyed to their last resting place in the upper story of the middle temple.

PROUD OF HIM AS SHE CAN BE

There is no animal on the farm which is so interesting to the boys and girls as the sheep. The little girl is so proud of the big sheep which she is holding above that she has asked to exhibit it for a prize. Wool and mutton have soared so high in price lately that an effort is being made to put on a big sheep show at the Crow Wing County Fair, Pequot, Sept. 15 to 17.

ret of the palace in Bangkok. Such has been the custom since the days of the king who built the present royal palace about 150 years ago.

Satisfied Anyway.

An Indianapolis youth recently took a girl to a dance. He was exceedingly bashful as it was both his first dance and his first girl. And the latter was exceedingly homely. Ready to be truthful he took her because she had asked him to go.

That night he described it to his mother. "It was not half so bad as I thought it would be," he told her. "I didn't have to have anything to do with any of the other girls but my own. I guess that other fellows sort of liked me and wanted to be kind because they let me have all the dances with the girl I took."

His mother smiled. After all, it was his first dance and he would learn some day that there were sometimes reasons besides kindness which caused young men not to offer to dance.—Indianapolis News.

Restrictions on Flyers.

In the Bournemouth (England) police court recently an air pilot was fined $250 for flying at a dangerously low altitude and for trick flying over Bournemouth, contrary to the air navigation regulations of 1919. The defendant executed two Immelmann turns at an altitude of 500 to 600 feet. Had the engine failed he would have had no place to land without danger to the public. The defense was that the Immelmann turn was not trick flying, but merely a quick way of turning. The defendant said he did two Immelmann turns over the sea, and during his flight he was never under 1,500 feet. This is the first prosecution of the kind in England.

The Traveling Preacher.

Eight-year-old Charles always attended the devotional and prayer services with his parents, and showed great interest in them. He always made his own little testimony. A friend once told him that he should be a minister.

Charles pondered over this advice long, but never said a word to anybody concerning it until he surprised his audience at a recent meeting by arising the second time and delivering the following:

"I've been thinking that I never could write any more sermons than would do me for three weeks, so I've decided that I'll have to be a traveling preacher."

Good Opinion of Himself.

My young son had been naughty and received a scolding. After a silence of some moments he asked: "Mother, how much did you pay the doctor for me?" I said, "Enough." He promptly answered, "Oh, well, I don't think you got stung."—Exchange.

North East West South

Supposing that, beginning tomorrow, all the newspapers are discontinued. What a future the public would make. "News! News! We must have news or we will be no better off than the ancients." "All right, suppose we give them news but cut out the advertisements."

Then we would discover that politics, the doings of society, notices of fires, accidents, deaths, scandals, sports, the activities of the police and criminals add little or nothing to the real comfort and happiness of this greatest age in the world's history.

What geni are they that have crowded the last fifty years with so much of advantage to humans? They are legion in number, but not least among them is Advertising.

Our day is the greatest time the world has seen because we have more to be happy with, better things, greater variety, greater comforts gathered together from the North, East, West and South for our choosing and selection. Look about you. This is the day of better food, better homes, better clothing, better babies, better health, better business. And advertising is the instrument that makes these better things possible.

Advertising is the NEWS of all the looms, of all the furnaces, of all the laboratories, of all the shops, of all the stores, of all the world and all working for you.

Because of advertising, luxuries and necessities that once cost a king's ransom are yours at little prices. Advertising pits merchant against merchant, artisan against artisan, producer against producer, for your benefit, forcing out the best there is in everything and telling the world about it.

Read advertising. Keep abreast of today. Advertising furnishes you with facts and opportunities that you would otherwise never know.
